DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. This application has been filed with informal drawings which are acceptable for examination purposes only. Formal drawings will be required when the application is allowed.
2. The drawings are objected to as failing to comply with 37 CFR 1.84(p)(5) because they include the following reference sign(s) not mentioned in the description: 2 & 39. A proposed drawing correction, corrected drawings, or amendment to the specification to add the reference sign(s) in the description, are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

3. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.
4. Claim 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The term "greater than about" in claim 6 is a relative term which renders the claim indefinite. The term "greater than about" is not defined by the claim, the specification does not provide a standard for ascertaining the requisite degree, and one of ordinary skill in the art would not be reasonably apprised of the scope of the invention. In the specification does not indicate as to what range of specific activity is covered by "about" and the claim language "greater than about" is indefinite.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 1-6 & 9-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Coviello (USPN 5,124,903).

Regarding claims 1 & 2, Coviello discloses first candles (51), the first candle having a first expected burn time, and a second candle (52), the second candle having a second expected burn time, a third candles (53), the third candle having a third expected burn time.

It would have been obvious matter of design choice to change the size of the candle(s), since such a modification would have involved a mere change in the size of a component. A change in size is generally recognized as being within the level of ordinary skill in the art. In re Rose, 105 USPQ 237 (CCPA 1955).

In addition, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have plurality of candles, since it has been held that mere duplication of the essential working parts of a device involves only routine skill in the art. St. Regis Paper Co. v. Bemis Co., 193 USPQ 8.

Note: it is inherent that differently sized or shaped candles would have different burn time

Regarding claim 3, Coviello discloses the claimed invention, explained above. In addition, Coviello discloses a container (15) and wherein the first, second, and third candles are packaged together within the container may to be removed prior to lighting.

Regarding claim 4 & 5, Coviello discloses the claimed invention, except for the candles are either scented or floats. It would have been obvious matter of design variation to modify candles of Coviello, since applicant has not disclosed that the difference solves any stated problem or is for any particular purpose and it appears that the most of the candles are either scented or floats.

Note: scented candles are known in the art in illumination and it is inherent that most of the candles floats on water.

Regarding claim 6, Coviello discloses the claimed invention, and it is inherent that differently lengthened candles of Coviello would have burn time. It would have been obvious matter of design variation to modify candles of Coviello so that the first burn time less than about 60 minutes, the second burn time is greater than about 60 minutes and less than about 120 minutes, and the third burn time is greater than about 120 minutes, since applicant has not disclosed that the difference solves any stated problem or is for any particular purpose and it appears the invention would perform equally well.

Regarding claims 9-13 Coviello discloses the structural limitation as explained above (claims 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 & 6). In addition, it has been held that to be entitled to weight in method claims, the recited structure limitations therein must affect the method in a manipulative sense, and not to amount to the mere claiming of a use of particular structure. Ex parte Pfeiffer, 1962 C.D. 408 (1961).

7. Claim 7 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Coviello (USPN 5,124,903) in view of Pekala et al. (USPN 6,092,932).

Note: using reusable gift bag of Pekala et al. to package candles would have been obvious because it is understood that a gift may be a many different items and candle(s) is one of the item that may be used as a gift.

8. Claim 8 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Coviello (USPN 5,124,903) in view of Shaffer et al. (USPN 5,551,570).

Regarding claim 8, Coviello discloses the claimed invention, explained above. In addition, Coviello discloses differently sized candles being packaged. Shaffer et al. teaches that it is known to use a decorative packaging system with a lighting element (51) and a means for fastening the lighting element to the container. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use modification in Shaffer et al., as taught by Coviello in order to package the plurality of candles with a gift bag.
